CHARITY FETE ARRANGED BY MAIN LINE FOLK IS HELD TODAY

Estate of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Walton in St. Davids Given Over to Harvest Home Entertainment—Other Affairs

THE palatial grounds of Walthamton, the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Walton, in St. Davids, were completely turned over today to the public for the sake of charity, when the Harvest Home Fete was held for the Neighborhood League.

A large number of socially prominent women are actively engaged in the affair. A baby rest tent is the weapon selected by the suffragists, of whom it has been said neglect of home and children is unpardonable, and they hope by their brave handling of the question of caring for the children and the charm of their "salesdays" to kill once and for all the accusation that interest in votes for women robs a woman of her love for children and her charm of manner.

In addition they ran an up-to-date grocery store to show that they carry their methods beyond the home, and insist that places from which their commodities come shall be above reproach. The women who arranged this novel campaign included Mrs. Ferree Brinton, Mrs. J. S. C. Harvey, Mrs. George H. Wilson, Mrs. Charles E. Martin, Mrs. M. L. Humrichous, Mrs. Anna Atkinson, Mrs. E. Lewis Burnham and Charles S. Harvey.

To rival this the anti-suffragists decided upon a practical booth just to show "those mean things, the suffs," that they are not the buffy butterflies of fashion their opponents claim. Prominent in this fact are Mrs. James Francis Sullivan, Mrs. J. Gardner Cassatt, Mrs. Charles Bingham Penrose, Miss Florence R. Hill, Mrs. T. G. Guilford and Mrs. J. Donaldson Paxton.

At the way-down-east table, in charge of the women of Berwyn, there were brown bread and baked beans, fishballs and doughnuts, mixed pies and crab-apple jelly. The committee, including Mrs. William Paul Morris, Mrs. Charles Alken, Mrs. J. P. Lamborn, Miss Margaretta Atkinson, Miss Agnes Okie and Mrs. Hugh de'K. Hamilton.

It would not be an up-to-date fete without dancing, so Mrs. Walton invited all guests who wished to trip the light fantastic to come to her porch between 4 and 6 o'clock and 7:30 and 10:30 o'clock. An orchestra discoursed sweet strains while the right hand of welcome was offered by a member of the Dancing Committee. The committee included Mrs. William Townsend Wright, Mrs. Rene Guillou Hare, Mrs. William Carmel Scull, Mrs. Theodora E. Winder, Mrs. Genevieve Gibbs, Miss Montgomery, the Misses Myers, Miss Martha Walton, Miss Eugenia Carter, Miss Mary Scull, Miss Gladys Jameson, Miss Hilja Jameson, Miss Marion Mulford and Miss Pepper.

A genuine clam bake was conducted in the little log cabin on the grounds, and there was also a moving-picture exhibition, this latter in charge of the various social organizations of Wayne, which have combined for the good of the cause. A gypsy camp was another feature of this fete.

Friends of Miss Kathryn Brautigan, of 3155 Emerald street, gave a surprise party at her home in her honor last Saturday evening. The occasion proved a complete surprise in every respect. Miss Brautigan received a ring as a mark of esteem from her friends.

The table, which was very artistically decorated in autumn colors, corresponding with the decorations of the room, was especially marked by a huge fruit column in the center, and was brilliantly illuminated by a large number of candelabra.

The guests were Miss Francis Sanwald, Miss Ethel Sowers, Miss Ida Yeager, Miss Emma Masherach, Miss Elsie Lee, Miss Frieda Meerbach, Mr. Ralph Silbert, Mr. Charles Lee, Mr. Charles B. Blymer, Mr. Howard Sowers, Mr. Harry Brautigan, Mr. Fred Schwab, Mr. William Schlinkel and Mr. Harry Kipp.

The Fraternal League, a literary organization of South Philadelphia, held a meeting on Sunday at the College Settlement, 5th and Christian streets. An entertainment will be given on Saturday, October 23, in the auditorium of the College Settlement. Mr. Joseph H. Jennings is secretary of the club.

The Isaac M. Wise Club held its second annual literary evening last night, at the Adath Jeshurun assembly rooms, Broad street and Locust street. The club demonstrated such a success that the club decided to hold another similar evening.
